

ANIMAL EXTINCTION

What is it?

Extinct animals are animals who once flourished and held their own which no longer exist on Earth in a living state.

Did you know...

The most endangered species in the world are:

1. Amur Leopard
2. Gorilla
3. Sea turtle
4. Orangutan
5. Sumatran Elephant
6. Saola
7. Vaquita
8. Tiger
9. Rhino
10. Pangolin

The Amur Leopard

While all of these animals are critically endangered, the Amur Leopard is by far the closest to extinction.

The leopard is being hunted and killed for its unique fur, and according to IUCN there are less than 70 leopards alive today.

Some of the biggest causes of extinction include:

Habitat loss

When we build roads and cities, we destroy the homes where animals, plants and other organisms live.

Overexploitation

Overusing resources like extreme farming and fishing is harmful to the environment and contributes to a less diverse ecosystem.

Climate Change

Melting of the ice caps, hurricanes and droughts are a few examples of these man-made changes in weather.

We now have

100,000,000

species on Earth and 10,000-100,000

species going extinct every year.

IUCN Red List

The IUCN Red List has evaluated 71,576 species since 1964 and has a statistic on

4980 are near threatened

10882 are vulnerable

6830 are endangered

4574 are critically endangered

828 gone extinct in captivity

68 gone extinct in the wild

In this statistic the UK contributes to 83

species total with

14

mammals,

11

birds,

8

reptiles, as well as other species.

So what can you do to help save endangered species?

Learn about endangered species in your area

It is important to learn about how special and important the species are in order to protect them.

Never buy products from endangered species

It can be thrilling to buy souvenirs on vacation but sometimes they can be made from endangered species.

Be careful of your purchases.

Recycle and buy sustainable products

Buy recycled paper and sustainable products like organic food and reusable coffee cups.

Adopt an Animal

Pay small monthly fees to support the protection of wild habitats of many endangered species.
